The Baltimore Sun, which has just been received by THE OPTIC, contains a column article on the funeral ceremonies connected with the burial of the late Archbishop Gross. Cardinal Gibbons sang the solemn high mass of requiem; the music was furnished by about 100 students from St. Mary's seminary, while the sermon was preached by Rev. Benedict Neithart, a former fellow-student of the dead archbishop. Hundreds of the leading Catholic clergy of the land were present, while the number of distinguished laity was limited only by the capacity of the great cathedral.

MAKING.

At the residence of the bride's father, on Nov. 24, by Rev. Enoch H. Sweet, Arthur Langston and Miss Olive May Pierce, both of East Las Vegas. Friends and neighbors to the number of twenty-five were present. The bride and groom were the recipients of many valuable presents.
